Zeev,

On April 6, 2016, Dr. Edith Read of Forde Biological Consultants (FBC) visited the property commonly known as 24604 Mulholland Highway (APN - 4455-042-015), Calabasas, Los Angeles County, California to conduct a springtime botanical survey. The proposed development area appeared cleared. Based on condition of the property, it is highly unlikely that special-status plant species including rare, threatened, and endangered species would occur within the proposed development area and there is only low potential for them to occur within the proposed fuel modification zones. No special-status plant species including rare, threatened, and endangered species were observed during the site visit.

Sincerely,
